FOR ALL OF YOUR ALASKA REAL ESTATE NEEDS

Vicki Harsha joined the Redoubt Realty team four years ago, shortly after moving to the Kenai Peninsula from Southeast Alaska. While in Southeast, she grew up in logging camps during the late 60's and early 70's, then graduated from Ketchikan High School and later raised her five children. Additionally, Vicki was active in the community and volunteered in multiple capacities to help the athletic groups her children participated in.

Vicki's real estate career started in 1986 as a sales agent. In 1991 she took a seven-year hiatus. After a move to Portland, Oregon in 1997, Vicki went to work as a mortgage loan originator and soon realized the value her services would be in Ketchikan. In 2000 Vicki and her family moved back to Ketchikan to establish a branch office of The Mortgage Network. It was a challenging and rewarding business. Satisfying lenders regarding the uniqueness found in many Alaska homes became the bulk of her workload, but ultimately satisfying clients was the force that drove her.

Prior to the housing market collapse in 2007, and with ever increasing difficulty obtaining approval of mortgage loans, she closed the doors on that chapter of her career, but took with her vast knowledge of the lending side of the housing market. Then in 2012, with an empty nest, Vicki moved to South central Alaska to support her husband's educational and career pursuits, finally landing on the Kenai Peninsula in 2014. Vicki joined Redoubt Realty soon thereafter and was re-licensed as a sales agent rekindling her career as a Realtor.

In addition to Vicki's multifaceted experience in the real estate industry spanning two decades, she forms long-term relationships and is dedicated to her clients. She enjoys meeting people and always finds common areas of interest, whether it be gardening, fishing, knitting, raising kids or enjoying grandchildren!

Vicki always goes beyond her duties as a Realtor to assist with any challenge that may arise, or as the situation requires. She truly believes that buying a home is the single biggest financial investment most families will make, and the process should be as stress free as possible.

You will not be disappointed choosing Vicki for your real estate needs. She knows that great customer service is the key to happy clients and lasting relationships.
